Sacramento restaurants need your support. So much of what we love about this region goes back to food – a favorite pizza place, the bistro where you went on your first date, the taqueria that we look forward to on Friday nights. But the hard truth is that due to COVID-19, many of our restaurants won't survive without our help. We can give them a fighting chance by ordering takeout, or even buying gift cards as presents for the holidays to offer the promise of better days ahead.

Those of us who live in and visit Sacramento have always rallied to support our beloved local favorites. That's how we kept the Sacramento Kings in town, it's how we built Sacramento Republic FC, and it's how we will save our restaurants and other local businesses.

Note: Keep in mind that some are temporarily closed or having to change their hours based on incoming restrictions, so it's best to check in with any restaurant before ordering.
