Fresh Meat First Recipes

Wild Caught Alaskan Salmon

Our Salmon is wild caught off the coast of Alaska and has much higher nutritional values than farm raised salmon. Salmon is high in Omega-3 and Omega-6 Fatty Acids and is a great protein source that supplies many of the best amino acids needed to support total pet health.

Grass Fed Beef

We choose Midwest Beef because it is some of the finest beef in the world. It is grass fed with NO added hormones or antibiotics. Beef is a great source of protein and is rich in essential amino acids that are needed for a healthy diet.

Free Run Chicken

Our chickens are humanly raised with NO hormones or antibiotics and they roam freely. The protein provided by chickens is rich in essential amino acids.

Taste Testers LOVE Them

Customer Reviews

- Our fur-baby, Cody, has tried every flavor of JAC Pet Nutrition treats and loves them all! He always comes running the second he sees, hears or smells the bag open. These are the only treats we ever give him now. We don't just buy JAC Pet Nutrition treats because Cody loves the taste of them, but also because we trust their natural ingredients are healthy for him - even my husband has tried them! After getting Cody as a puppy, we learned that joint issues, such as hip dysplasia, was common with Labradors. Therefore, Cody's nutrition is extremely important to us and we're confident that quality foods like JAC Pet Nutrition treats contribute to what keeps him happy, healthy and thriving, even at 8 years old!
- As an owner with puppy food allergies, being able to spell and name all of the ingredients in a treat or kibble is important. We feed raw and monitor all treat contents in order to try and limit flare-ups. These have been a great addition to our treat line-up--they provide a nice alternative to the dehydrated meat options out there. My little guy usually hides upstairs when its time to get in his kennel, but these have been quite effective in luring him out! Two paws up from us. Only small feedback would be that I wish they came in a smaller size for training, etc. You can break them up yourself (like a very hard cookie), but the squares themselves are about the area of a Wheat Thin cracker but much tickier. On the plus side, my dogs love chewing on them and it's probably cleaning their teeth in the process!
- Our pup Walter can't get enough of these! He loves the taste and we love the simple ingredients - win win!
- Healthy dog treats from a local company. My Petey is SUPER picky when it comes to food but he loves these. I feel good about giving them to him as part of a healthy diet. He finishes them in seconds.

Hi, While we were at our local pet store buying our border collie, Jack, his regular food, the sales associate told us about a special promo on the Jac treats. Jack is quite fussy and also allergic to chicken, but we bought two bags of the beef treats to try and we're thrilled that he absolutely loves them! Thanks for a great product!
